

IAN UNDRESS ENLISTED UNIFORM: OVERVIEW

The enlisted and noncommissioned officers undress uniforms have many features in common. Both consist of a light grey tunic worn over a short-sleeve, scarlet mock turtle-neck. For enlisted personnel, light grey trousers and boots complete the uniform. For NCOs, the trousers and boots are a darker gray, with a 5/8" stripe down the outer leg to indicate which division they belong to. The tunic has a low cut collar and black trim with shallow pockets. Rating insignia is worn high on both arms, just below the shoulder. A nametag is on the left side.

How it came out

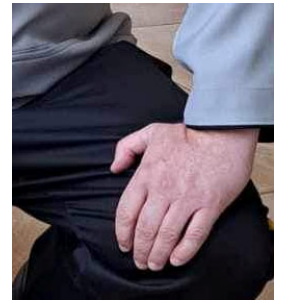

IAN UNDRESS ENLISTED UNIFORM: THE TUNIC

The enlisted and noncommissioned officers undress uniforms have many features in common. Both consist of a light grey tunic worn over a short-sleeve, scarlet mock turtle-neck.

Notes:

- (1) A short-sleeve, scarlet mock turtle-neck is worn underneath and therefore no scarlet pops out of the cuffs at the end as originally seen in the SITS2 drawings. Rather, the end of the tunic cuff is a thin bead of black that matches the black trim of the jacket.
- (2) The color-coding reference on the cuff, which SITS2 places on the undershirt, not on the jacket, has also been eliminated.

Black piping at the end of the cuffs.

SITS2 Drawing. Note the original red cuff has been eliminated by BuNine.

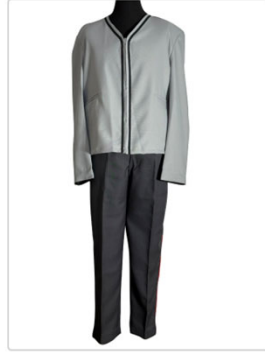

IAN UNDRESS ENLISTED UNIFORM: THE PANTS

For enlisted personnel, light grey trousers and boots complete the uniform. For NCOs, the trousers and boots are a darker gray, with a 5/8" stripe down the outer leg to indicate which division they belong to.

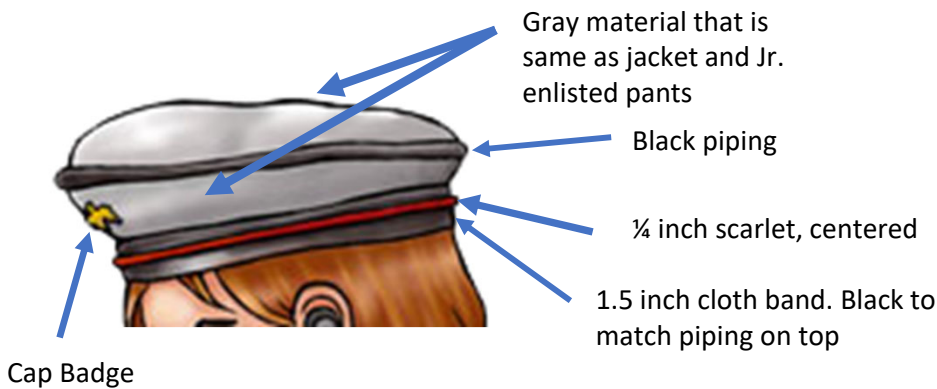

For NCOs, the 5/8" Grosgrain stipe is by division as follows:

Deck	Yellow Gold #660
Engineering	Maroon #789
Warfare	Red #250
General Services	Antique Blue #363
Special Services	Orange #750
Medical Services	Purple #465
LAC	Silver #012

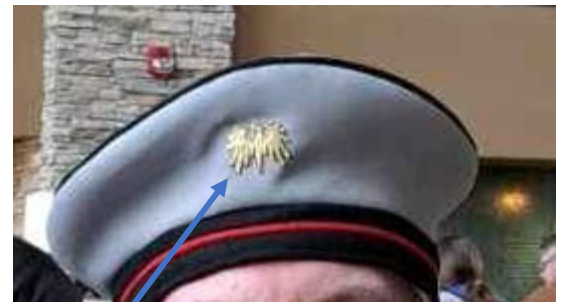

Jr. Enlisted wear the light gray pants with no leg stripe. NCOs wear the dark gray pants, with the leg stripe.

ENLISTED CAP:

The cap is soft, and lower than that of the officers, grey with black piping around the top and with scarlet trim on the black band. An Andermani eagle cap badge is affixed on the face.

Here is how the prototype cap came out. We'll have these available soon from one of our two external vendors.

You may choose to use a current rank pin for now.

Cap Badge: This is an initial rendering from BuNine. BuSup has already ordered these and they will be available soon.

IAN UNDRRESS ENLISTED UNIFORM: THE NAME BADGE

A silver nametag is worn on the left breast of the tunic, followed by the name of the wearer's current ship.

External Vendor

An external vendor has worked from the specifications for you to be able to order the enlisted uniform (but not the cap ... yet) to your exact size and measurements directly from them.

The transaction is directly between you and the vendor and TRMN and the Bureau of Supply takes no responsibility for the transaction or the quality of the product.

You may contact the vendor HERE.

All other rank pins, badges, etc. are available from the BuSupp store.
